VILLAGE BABYSITTER VENTS SPLEAN AT FRIDAY CLUB

A VILLAGE TEENAGER has broken silence by providing first-hand insight on the “sad and pathetic antics” of members of the monthly Friday Club

Olivia Huntley-Parker 18 of Twatting Fiery Grove struck out at the older people in the village who “really should know better” “First it was that cinema effort, then alcohol themed festivals and mass balls - they weren’t so bad, at least they are few and far between, occurred in summer and usually coincided when we were all down in Padstow. However, this abomination occurs every month”

“They come back from the club, usually later than initially stated, inebriated, giggling and dishevelled. We then wait as they struggle with basic maths, put the kettle on and jointly perform a slurred apology for failing to reserve the required amount for baby-sitting payment”

“The evening spectacle finishes with an escort home. This ‘walk of shame’ through the village by the male partner is characterised by slurring words, curb stumbling and a predictably uncomfortable conversation about the subjects I’m studying and which university I’m applying for.”

“The village is going rapidly downhill and this time it’s not the fault of the housing developers, pooing dogs, burglars or generic pub chains - it’s down to an irresponsible group of middle-aged residents trying to recapture their youth!”

Olivia summed up by saying that she and her friends had studied 80’s and 90’s popular culture as part of her Sixth Form art project and had concluded that all the bands and the music of that era “were total sh*t.”

A spokesperson for The Friday Club declined to comment beyond stating that the next meeting of The Friday Club would take place on Friday March 30th from 19:00 at Barnt Green Sports Club.
